Response:

The students of the college are involved in various activities such as Curricular, Co-curricular and Extra-Curricular activities through different departments at different stages. NSS, NCC, Students Development Board, Vidyarthini Munch, Sports, Computer etc. These departments and committees provide the opportunities for the students to participate in different activities at College level, Taluka level, Zonal, District level etc. Students actively organize various programs throughout the year such as exhibitions, poster presentations, celebrations of cultural days competitions, commerce festival etc. On these occasions, students get the opportunity to highlight their hidden skills such as soft skills, creativity, leadership, team work spirit and event management etc. Students are also motivated to participate in research activities at different levels such as Avishkar. Course outcomes are measured by the students' performance through practical, internal and external evaluations. Teachers are always in effort to provide critical inputs with proper guidelines which help them to improve their performance in future. There are different measuring scales to measure the attainment of Programme Outcome, Programme Specific Outcome and Course Outcome. Students participate in curriculum as well as extra curriculum activities at different levels and get the automatic index for calculating their outcome attainments. Various programmes are included in the academic year which provides an opportunity for the student to groom themselves and they get the help to find out the hidden skills and can work on them to get more and more results. Continuous Internal Evaluation is one of the aspects in the calculation of attainment of the programme outcome. At the same time, various aspects such as regular attendance in the class room, active participation in the discussions, overall performance in the lecture, behaviour of the students with their friends and the teachers etc. give the benchmarks to count the attainment of the programme. Results of all internal examinations are displayed which also helps to calculate the attainment of the programme outcome and the student gets the opportunity to work in particular aspects in which they may be weaker and can concentrate more in those subjects where they can score the highest marks than at present. Competition helps to increase the awareness of the single mark and gives the perfection. All this help them to improve their performance in external examinations. The innovative practices involved by the college such as field visits, industrial visits, and short-term courses also helps to calculate the attainment of the programme outcome. As all these courses indirectly checks the leadership skills, participation skills, communication skills and skills to handle the situations etc. Students have to prepare the research projects on different topics assigned by the teachers which help them to improve the research aspects and critical thinking skills. It makes them rich in research activities at the graduation and post-graduation level which prove helpful for them in their future as the most important attainment.
