 SUBJECT: Valuation intangibles
 SUB. TEACHER: Miss. gujar mam.

VALUATION OF INTANGIBLE

- Meaning : A calculated intangible value (CIV) is a method of valuing a company's intangible assets, which are assets that are not physical in nature. Examples of intangible assets include brand recognition, goodwill, patents, trademarks, copyrights, proprietary technology, and customer lists.
- Defination: "Intangible asset" is an identifiable non-monetary asset, without physical substance held for use in the production or supply of goods or services, for rental to others, or for administratives.

Valuation of intangible assets is required for several reasons:

- Financial Reporting: Companies need to report the value of their intangible assets in their financial statements for accounting purposes. This is required by accounting standards such as International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS) and Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (GAAP).
- Mergers and Acquisitions: When companies merge or acquire other companies, they need to know the value of the intangible assets of the target company to determine the purchase price and to allocate the purchase price among the various assets.

- Investment Analysis: Investors need to understand the value of intangible assets when analyzing a company's financial performance and potential future growth prospects.
- Tax Purposes: Valuation of intangible assets is also required for tax purposes, such as determining the tax liability associated with the sale or transfer of intangible assets.
- Legal Disputes: In legal disputes involving intellectual property or other intangible assets, a valuation is required to determine damages or the fair value of the assets.

Types of Valuation of Intangible

1. Cost Approach: This method estimates the cost of replacing the intangible asset with a similar one. This method is often used for patents or copyrights, where the cost of developing a similar asset can be estimated.
2. Income Approach: This method values the intangible asset based on the income it is expected to generate in the future. The most common method used in this approach is the discounted cash flow method, which estimates the present value of the expected future cash flows.

1. Market Approach: This method estimates the value of the intangible asset by comparing it to similar assets that have been sold in the market. This method is often used for trademarks, where the value can be estimated by comparing it to similar trademarks that have been sold.
2. Relief from Royalty Approach: This method estimates the value of the intangible asset by calculating the royalty payments that would be saved if the asset was not used. This method is often used for patents or copyrights, where the owner can license the asset to others for a fee.
3. Multi-Period Excess Earnings Method: This method estimates the value of the intangible asset by calculating the expected earnings above a normal return on tangible assets. This method is often used for goodwill or customer relationships.

NOTES

... scientific method is to provide an optimum solution to the problems. The scientific methods include observation and formulation of hypothesis related to the results of the scientific methods and techniques. If the hypothesis is accepted, then the results should be accepted in an organization, but if the hypothesis is not accepted, then another hypothesis is formulated.

- Objective & Approach: The aim of an organization is to provide optimal solutions to various problems. It is essential to measure the desirability of a solution by achieving the organizational objectives. This measured desirability helps in comparing the alternative courses of action with respect to their outcomes.
- Economical In Nature: In an uncertain and complex situation, research helps in reducing the costs of business and thereby, improving the profits. For example, in a factory, control, research can provide scientific rules for reducing acquisition costs and inventory-carrying costs.

Aquaponic - The Revolutionary Farming
Growing Fish & plants together

• Introduction -
Aquaponic is a food production system that couples aquaculture with hydroponic whereby the nutrient rich aquaculture water is fed to hydroponic plants.
The main aim of aquaponic system is to create plant growth using aquatic animal waste. Consequently, aquaponics uses the fish waste as fertilizer for plants while the plants clean water for the fish. This mutual relationship between the plants & fishes helps nurture both hence producing high yield & ultimately a good income.

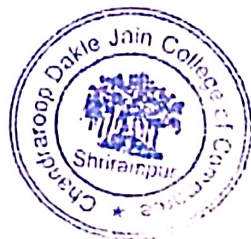

• Objectives

1. Demonstrate feasibility of an aquaponic system under a controlled environment using less resource.
2. Quantify the business inputs & outputs of the system.
3. Explain the sustainable & profitable qualities of aquaponics as a business model.
