• Abstract

Inflation is the problem of poor, under developed and developed country. Every state and its government has their future strategy to fight against inflation and other types of basic problem and it's the good skill of such government where they remove the society from the social evil like inflation. Inflation is not isolated concept it's connected with each and every part of the society. So the citizens always faces inflationary problem in their life if the inflation is related with the daily or unavoidable needs so their life will be difficult. Here every government has to create strategies and present and future plan to fight against inflation. Majority thinker and social workers thinks that the major cause of inflation is the corruption. So on that way we have to do further study about social impact of inflation and other root causes of inflation in India.

• Introduction

Everyone is knowing about the causes of inflation, when we think about inflation very day daily need is going costly day by day like education, health, electronic appliances, seeds, vegetables, petrol and everything is coming under impact of inflation. India is developing itself gradually comparatively other countries on the other side society also facing the major problems like inflation and poverty and unemployment. Many agitations done by persons and other social worker against government of India it was not so effectively create some impact on it and government also failed to curb such problems from the society. Every government did the promises that they will reduce such type of evil from the society and will create harmony between daily need and its prizes. Because of such type of problem in Indian society there can be possibility to divide society in to two parts like very rich people and very poor people and defiantly they will fight against one another to protect themselves and to fulfill their basic need.

• Hypothesis

- 1) Every person is suffering from the impact of inflation.
- 2) Corruption is the root cause of inflation.

• Explanation

In Indian society the farming is the backbone of the society. Every farmer and its related other workers are depended on the income of the farm and our farming system is totally depending upon the monsoon rain. Due to lack of climate support and governmental support the farmers facing dangerous problems like insufficient electricity, lack of water supply, high cost pesticides, availability of man power and market availability. Such types of problem critically impact on farmers life and he turn towards suicide where he is no eligible to pay overburden debt other financial burden.

Not only farmer but middle class and poor class society is completely suffering from inflation is no challenge. One side middle class persons can adjust their necessities but poor class families are going very poor because due to inflation their total time is waste gather for bread and butter. They completely depend upon day to day work that's why such families turning towards the bagger, pick pocketing, stealing money. They involved in small types of crime to fulfill their basic need of their family and they failed to develop their several to develop their living, education and employment and their several generations never yet developed. On some more impact on middle class families where they always fight to adjust their needs with in limited family income they always hate to compromise with their dreams and always have to suffer with the impact of inflation. Not only the male member of the family the house wife also suffered from such problems like high cost of domestic gas, cooking oil etc going very high pries day by day.

- Indian Environment

Indian environment is completely depending on monsoon. In India only three month period gets for rain. Sometimes some of the days or months gone dry or no rainy days so it's completely adverse effect on agriculture and other water depend industries as well as it effects on market. Due to lack of rain everything gone costly in market and its effect on the living of common person who cannot fulfill his needs on that way it's creates burden on agriculture and other industries and pries rates of very goods turn very high.

- Corruption

In India corruption in government is not new, simply means politician or white collar criminal they not only doing fraud with government money but also they are doing fraud with the money of every Indian citizen. In government of India the politician as soon as he gets any post then he tries to collect the money by several illegal ways. Very much time it has happened that very few persons are catch to found in corruption and also rarely some of the persons are punished for the corruption on that way every politician knows that they will not be trapped by any watchdog machinery about corruption so again they engages in to corruption. In market if we find any person during pick pocketing then several person beat him on this spot but if we saw any person is doing fraud with huge amount of government money illegally then we never think to beat him and generally we did not take action against him it is common Indian mentality where such type of frauds are creates huge amount of burden over the Indian economy which effect every citizen have to pay increased taxes in every basic need.

- Protest against government about inflation

"Corruption is the root of the high inflation". Anti-graft activist Anna Hazare said that steep inflation in the country was the result of rampant corruption which could only be dealt with by a strong Jan Lokpal Bill. They also said that inflation is a result of corruption which made life difficult. They said about their aim at bringing in Jan Lokpal Bill which ensures that even 60 to 65 paisa misused through corruption can be used for national development. In Bhopal the Madhya Pradesh congress did stage a state-wide protest against the spiraling prices of onion and tur dal by distributing both these commodities for free to the poor people.

Before some of the days the situation raised that chicken was cheaper than tur dal and onion and tomato rates touches the sky so in that way its primary responsibility of the present government to take quick action against such social evil because the tur dal and other dal and also the onion, tomato are the basic ingredients of the daily meal so in that way every person is suffering from such inflation its basic root is corruption.

- Conclusion

Here concludes that the inflation creates the huge impact on common man. Inflation not only creates impact on the economic stress but also it impact on the health of the society. Where essential ingredient of daily meal is going costly so it's very difficult to take proper meal and which also effects of the children, old age persons and also effect on the sick person. As on overall study of such research the conclusion is that the infection is the opposite coin side of corruption. Where government not understanding the problem of common person, negligence towards the problems of citizen, lack of control over the delegated powers, desire to be rich within short time is the main lacuna of Indian government. So huge type of corruption creates over burden on countries economy it causes inflation.
